CREATIVE ARTS WORKSHOP WELCOMES NEW GALLERY FELLOW

New Haven, CT – Creative Arts Workshop is pleased to announce that Robin Green has been selected as their 2016-2017 Gallery Fellow. "Robin seems to have shown up at just the right time," explained Daniel Fitzmaurice, Executive Director. "She comes with new ideas, which will expand our thinking about our exhibitions." All of CAW's exhibitions are free and visitors are welcome Monday-Friday from 9am to 7pm and starting in the fall Saturdays from 9am to noon at 80 Audubon Street in New Haven.

Green is a quiltmaker, whose quilts are unique expressions of form, color, and rhythm. At the same time, she maintains the tradition of handquilting that has been passed down to her from her own mother and the generations of American quiltmakers before her. She is also an art historian who is passionate about supporting artists, their work, and the role of art within communities. With degrees from Oberlin College and Yale University, she has a wide breadth of experience, having worked in artist's studios, commercial galleries, museum archives, and academic lecture halls. Her work can be seen in The Improv Handbook for Modern Quilters and on her website, www.fernstitch.com.
